

Marquez, pictured right, “Every time we went on a field trip, God was always the subject. Whether it was to ride Go-carts, or to climb Stone Mountain. It was never just you give, and we receive. It was always you work, and you earn, which taught us how to survive in the real world. I went fishing for the first time, I climbed Stone Mountain, I met good friends and most importantly, I learned about God.”

